

The Brave New World – What can we learn from Google, Apple and Facebook?

Date: Friday, 14 October 2011
Time: 12:30 - 13:15
Venue: Theatre A, Chow Yei Ching Building

Speaker:

Prof. Paul Cheung
Department of EEE,
The University of Hong Kong

* There will be a more relaxing Q&A section from 13:15 - 14:00. Food will be served in Rm 603,
Chow Yei Ching Building.
Please feel free to come up and chitchat more!

The Google logo, consisting of the word 'Google' in its multi-colored font.

<http://www.eee.hku.hk/news/seminars.html>

Abstract:

In this informal lunch time seminar, Prof. Paul Cheung shall examine what are the common trails in the most successful technology companies, and try to learn how innovative and entrepreneurial culture can be cultivated among the engineering students.

Biography of the Speaker:

Paul Cheung is Professor in the Department of Electrical and Electronic Engineering and former Dean of Engineering at the University of Hong Kong. He is concurrently the Director of Technology Transfer of the University of Hong Kong. He also serves as the Programme Director of the Master of Science in E-Commerce and Internet Computing in the University. He was on secondment from the University to the Hong Kong Government as the Policy Advisor of the Innovation and Technology Commission from 2002-04. Prior joining the Government, he was Corporate Senior Vice-President in technology, at Pacific Century CyberWorks (PCCW) responsible for the strategic development in technology for the Group while on leave from the University from 2000-02. Before joining the private sector, he had spent 22 years as a scholar and educator in the academia, and was the Dean of Engineering at the University of Hong Kong from 1994-2000. For more of his bio, please visit: <http://www.eee.hku.hk/people/cheung.html>